Can't find a cab? Try a 'Code 8'

Speedier service?
Informal deals could create city bylaw 'conundrum'

JEREMY NOLAIS

jeremy.nola@metronews.ca

For cab driver Sukhdial Dhami, it makes good business sense to offer his airport-arriving customers a second lift when it comes time for them to depart from Calgary International.

"You make your own business," said the Associated Cab veteran of more than 10 years. "You give them your number and tell them to you call you."

The informal agreement between driver and customer, which occurs outside of the mandatory dispatch systems all cabbies are required to be signed onto, would be classified as a "Code 8." Results of focus group work undertaken by the city's volunteer Taxi and Limousine Advisory Committee and made public in February indicate drivers see anywhere from 30-70 per cent of their fares come from Code 8 bookings.

The feedback also indicated that customers find establishing the agreements more advantageous than phoning for a ride through the general dispatch, which often greets weary revellers with a busy signal during peak-service hours.

But Sandy Jenkins with consumer advocacy group Voters for Taxis said he sees a "conundrum" emerging as Calgary's Livery Transport Services division begins actively tracking the activities of drivers and attempts to push in stricter regulations requiring all vehicles to be in service during the busiest hours.

Early results of GPS and taximeter tracking by city officials found the average customer-less driver was logged off the dispatch nearly half of the time, a violation of the city's livery bylaw.

Jenkins questioned how drivers will actively service their collection of Code 8 customers while still complying with the city's rules.

"Given all the problems they have with dispatch, I think you're going to see more Code 8s than less," he added.

But Marcia Andreychuk, a business analyst working in the city's livery department, said Code 8 bookings are generally more common among veteran drivers and occur during periods where business is slower.

She added that the city officials could turn to security-camera footage to crackdown on drivers refusing to do their part to quell a dispatch customer backlog.

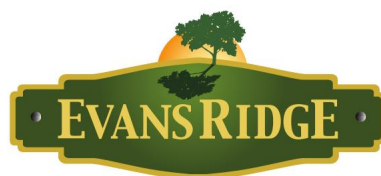

"Drivers aren't looking to really thwart the system, they're looking to provide service," she said.

Measles warning expands to 2 Calgary restaurants

Infectious disease. Symptoms include fever, cough, runny nose, red eyes and a spreading, blotchy rash

robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

Staff at two Calgary restaurants were infected with measles, according to health officials, who are now asking anyone who was at either establishment recently to monitor themselves for symptoms.

Anyone who was at National Pub Westhills on March 24 or 25 between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. may have been exposed, according to Alberta Health Services.

The same goes for anyone who was at Cibo restaurant on 17 Avenue on March 29 or 30 between 4 p.m. and 11 p.m.

Judy MacDonald, the medical officer of health for the Calgary health zone, said at least one student at Western Canada High School was among two people confirmed this week to have measles, and both were "totally unimmunized" against the viral disease.

In response, she said, Alberta Health Services set up a clinic at the high school and administered measles vaccine to 71 students and 36 staff members.

Measles vaccine can still be effective up to 72 hours after exposure, MacDonald said.

Students and staff whom AHS can't verify as being immune — typically meaning that they've had two doses of measles vaccine in their lifetimes — will be told to stay home from school between April 5 and April 21. "They are not supposed to be out because they could be infectious at any time, even before they become symptomatic," MacDonald said.

That period represents nine instructional days for high-school students.

The Calgary Board of Education said in a written statement it "is in the process of developing plans to support students so they can continue to progress through their courses during this time."

There have now been five confirmed cases of measles in the Calgary area so far in 2014. Between 2000 and 2013, there were a total of 20 cases.

MacDonald said there has been a troubling amount of "misinformation" floating around on social media about vaccines, leading people to avoid immunization.

"People certainly can make their own decisions about whether they want to immunize themselves or their children," she said. "That is their right. But they need to have the right information."

Anyone who may have been exposed and believe they are exhibiting symptoms of measles is asked to Health Link Alberta at 1-866-408-5465 before visiting any health-care facility.

Flood-buoyed insurance rates hammer city organizations

Cost of doing business. Multimillion-dollar increases seen for city, public school board

jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Ripple effects of last June's flood are likely to put added pressure in the form of hiked insurance premiums on the budgets of city organizations for years to come, officials warn.

The City of Calgary already saw its rates hiked by $2.5 million, something that was accounted for in its 2014 operating budget, approved in the fall.

Dave Corbett, city manager of risk management and claims, declined to provide the city's overall insurance tally now but said the spike is the largest he's seen in 12 years at the helm. Corbett said the flood is part of the equation but said additional building assets and other factors are also at play.

Coun. Brian Pincott, a former audit committee chair, said he anticipates the boost to rates is "not going to be a one-time blip."

"Insurance companies, they play the long game and they recoup their costs over the long run and they do that by increasing your premiums," Pincott said, noting the additional charge was spread out among the city's numerous business units.

"The cost of doing business has gone up," he added.

City school boards, who have lamented dealing with shoestring budgets for years, also saw added insurance charges after their own buildings were hit by rushing water and heavy rains. The Calgary Board of Education estimated in an initial 2014-15 budget report released Monday that its insurance premiums and uninsured losses charges will spike 72.6 per cent, or $2.1 million.

Public-board officials have said the additional cost was added into its operating tally, which ran $27.7 million over available funding. Trustees voted Tuesday to drain the organization's nearly $21 million "rainy-day fund" to zero in a bid to lessen impact on students.

The Calgary Catholic School District confirmed its insurance rates also rose to the tune of $300,000.

Calgary Zoo spokesperson Larissa Mark said officials at the island attraction also budgeted

Insurance advice

Bill Adams, vice-president of western and pacific regions for the Insurance Bureau of Canada, said rates typically trend in the same direction as claims but encouraged everyone from small business and car owners to officials running entire municipalities to hunt for bargains.

- "Obviously, we've seen some significant events in Alberta over the last number of years that have impacted homes and autos — hail, water, etc. Some of those same things have impacted commercial establishments as well," Adams said. "But whether they're up sufficiently to see sustained increases to premiums is really going to be a company-by-company situation.... It's a very competitive market out there and it's probably more important that you shop around now in this environment than any other time in recent history."

Province's spin doctors massively overpaid: CTF

The Alberta government spends $23.1 million annually on 214 full-time communications positions, according to documents obtained by the Canadian Taxpayers Federation (CTF) and released Thursday.

"Governments need to have well-paid and qualified communications staff ... but the Alberta government has gone way overboard on this," CTF Alberta director Derek Fildebrandt said.

"We should fire some spin doctors and hire some real doctors, hire some teachers, pay down the debt."

On average, each ministry has 11 full-time communications positions at an average cost of $107,844 per position, according to the documents.

"From what I've seen, Alberta far outranks any other order of government right now," he said. "People get paid a fair bit for working for the federal government, but I would be very surprised if the average communications staffer — not director, but average communications staffer — made an average of $108,000."

Average compensation

David Sands, a spokesperson for the Alberta Public Affairs Bureau, said the salary levels are necessary to stay competitive in the province's job market, and even then retention is an issue.

"We rarely see top management-type jobs in the Alberta Public Affairs Bureau come from the private sector," he said. "We often see our communications directors leave government and go to the (private) sector. And I think that speaks, probably, to the remuneration level."

Fildebrandt also noted, "We have more spin doctors in this province than we have actual political journalists."

The Calgary Zoo is now home to two new baby otter pups.

Charlotte, the island attraction's river otter, successfully gave birth March 18, marking the zoo's first successful otter litter.

and we have observed them nursing," general curator Jamie Dorgan said in a release. "Charlotte is doing everything a new mom should."

The otter pups are not currently in a spot that can be viewed by the public. Because they're only two weeks old, the pair have yet to open their eyes and their gender has not been determined. METRO

Reckless 911 callers face $10K fine

On the rise. Police reported 40,000 more non-emergency calls in 2013

Frivolous three-digit dialers now face five-digit fines for repeatedly and deliberately straining 911 call centres.

As of April 1, Calgarians can be dinged $5,000 for phoning the emergency hotline in non-emergency situations — and that penalty doubles for repeat offenders.

"Alberta's 911 centres face a high volume of calls and some of them are accidents and it is a legitimate understanding," said Rosemary Water with Alberta Municipal Affairs.

"However, some of the calls are made deliberately to abuse the 911 system."

Steve Dongworth, head of Calgary's public safety communications branch, told Metro

Grab your cell

Mobile users make up about 70 per cent of the emergency calls, according to the city's public safety communications department.

the city hasn't done "any huge analysis" on dubious dialers.

But of the roughly 300 non-emergency calls recorded each day, Dongworth deemed most to be accidents, with pranksters and people "with challenges of one kind or another" being held accountable for the rest.

He also said more specific provincial guidelines must be established before $10,000 fines are doled out as it could be difficult for kids or vulnerable Calgarians to pay that hefty penalty.

"This is fraught with challenges and we need to get a better understanding of where it's going," Dongworth said.

Another part of the new 911 law passes a 44-cent monthly levy on to mobile users that mirrors the current landline charge. Calgary expects to collect almost a quarter of the $14.2-million raised for 911 call centre upgrades.

A citywide text-to-911 system is expected to be rolled out in the next five years. Under the new reporting system, 911 call takers would likely receive text messages, photos and videos.

Police seek help in sex assault case

Calgary police are asking the public for clues to help solve a four-month-old sex assault case.

Asked about the delay, Insp. Monty Sparrow declined to provide specifics.

"We've run into a number of obstacles during this investigation," Sparrow said. "We've developed this composite drawing and we need to get it out to the public."

Police are looking for a man described as being of East Indian descent with an accent, between 35 and 40 years old, with a heavy build.

They believe this man is responsible for the sexual assault of a woman in November 2013.

According to police, the victim was near 14 Avenue and 2 Street SW around 3 a.m. on Nov. 24 when an unknown person stopped his vehicle, believed to be a dark green, older-model, four-door Ford Taurus, to speak with her.

The woman asked the man for a ride home, and he accepted. Police said he didn't drive her home and instead travelled north of the city where the sex assault took place.

The victim was able to escape and run away, but the man drove after her and allegedly tried to run her over, police said. The suspect fled the scene after another car stopped to offer the victim assistance.

Police urged anyone with information to call them at 403-266-1234. METRO

Patrick Deegan. Man gets 2 years jail for threatening to kill people at Calgary Stampede

A man whom a judge says has an "obsession with warfare and weaponry" has been sent to jail for threatening to kill people with a machine gun at the Calgary Stampede last summer.

Patrick Deegan, 29, was sentenced Thursday to two years less a day after admitting in January that he uttered death threats and illegally possessed a firearm.

"We now sadly live in a world where threats like these have to be taken seriously," said provincial court Judge Joanne Durant.

Deegan admitted he sent the email from his account to the fire department on May 26, 2013. The email warned there was going to be an attack at the Stampede that July and that there would be many casualties.

Olds sees much faster Internet results after upgrade to SpeedTest.Net servers

Olds residents with gigabit Internet service through O-Net are seeing much faster results now that their locally owned service provider has dedicated a server to one of the most commonly used speed-test websites.

The service already outpaced two Calgary Internet providers on the upload side, according to tests carried out by volunteers on behalf of Metro earlier this year through SpeedTest.net.

But O-Net operations manager Nathan Kusiek said he found those results surprisingly slow, so he investigated

"The equipment at SpeedTest.net, it was not designed to handle gigabit," Kusiek said. "So what we've done is we've gone to

A volunteer in Olds who ran three tests for Metro in February came back with an average download speed of 8.63 Mbps, upload speed of 23.34 Mbps and ping of 33 ms.

Customer test results after the server upgrade, meanwhile, came back as high as 880 Mbps for both uploads and downloads and a ping of 2 ms.

"Our customers now can actually test from Olds to SpeedTest.net and get results that are gigabit-type results," Kusiek said.

$10 million. Calgary post-secondaries receive influx of provincial cash

More than $10 million will be divvied up among Calgary post-secondary institutions aiming to boost student head counts for the 2014-15 year.

The city schools' share came as part of a larger $32.5-million cash injection from the province aimed specifically at programs across Alberta where prospective student demand is outpacing available seats. The injection is designed to counter some of the damage created when the province reduced by nine per cent the post-secondary funding it had pledged in the 2013 budget.

The province made a general announcement of how much money it would provide to the schools when the budget was tabled last month, but then got down to more specifics on Thursday.

LET'S USE TAX DOLLARS TO SCORE A NEW STADIUM, TOO

IN DEFENCE OF Mike Morrison
calgary@metronews.ca

Last Saturday afternoon, while you were busy shopping at the Calgary Farmers' Market or skiing in the mountains, Coun. Druh Farrell tweeted something mysterious, if not ominous.

No, it wasn't about bike lanes or campaign spending; it was about something much more controversial: "Question: Do you support spending public dollars for a new stadium and arena in #yyyc?"

The tweet's replies were a resounding "No," but assuming that Farrell is at least teasing the idea of stirring up debate on a new arena to replace the Saddledome, I beg of you to think about the ongoing issue differently.

I'll never paint myself as a tax expert, but I've always supported the idea of using our tax dollars to build a better city. I think having a world-class city means we have to have world-class venues, and I think we can all agree that there isn't much that's world-class about the Saddledome.

Quoted

I think having a world-class city means we have to have world-class venues.

In fact, I'd admit that I was slightly disappointed when last year's flood didn't wipe the stadium off the map altogether. Never before has something reopening caused me to be so disheartened.

If you start to think about your tax dollars differently, you might be more open to a new stadium. Sadly, things like Alison Redford's supposed office-apartment hybrid give using our tax dollars a bad reputation. But Edmonton's new Rogers Place is a great example of mixed funding coming together for the greater good. And I'm not sure if you've been to Edmonton, but the future home of their new stadium, will bring a much-needed boost of people going to the area, with everything from concerts to conferences.

And it's not about giving millionaire hockey players a better place to play. From what I've seen this season, a new stadium isn't going to be what turns around the Calgary Flames. I think we can all agree that the Saddledome's layout and acoustics are terrible, resulting in many bands regretting their decision to come, or skipping us altogether. The only band that hasn't gotten the memo is the Eagles, who've never met a concert opportunity that they didn't want to overcharge for.

With a bigger venue comes better events; better events bring more people, and more people spend money. You'd have a hard time convincing me that giving people more opportunities to spend money and support local business around the stadium is a bad idea.

I'm not sure if Coun. Farrell's tweet was about Saddledome, but I can only hope it was. If in the coming weeks, months and years, if the idea grows into something more realistic, I hope that people will consider the benefits of a new stadium. And if it happens, let's all promise not to tell Glenn Frey.

Underground film fest offers 'offbeat,' 'edgy' selection

CUFF. Celebration of local and international filmmakers runs from Monday to April 13

Movies featuring bloody kung-fu battles on the streets of Jakarta, Johnny Depp's conversations with Hunter S. Thompson's illustrator and one young woman's obsession with her anus are among the topics to be featured in this year's Calgary Underground Film Festival.

"We're hoping there's something for everybody," festival director Brenda Lieberman said of this year's event, which starts Monday and runs until April 13.

Since it was founded in 2003, CUFF has aimed to showcase films that Calgarians wouldn't otherwise get a chance to see.

"They're all a little more offbeat, a little more provocative, a little more edgy," Lieberman said.

They're also a little more local, at least when it comes to some of the shorter films to be featured alongside the bigger-name selections that have appeared at South by Southwest or the Sundance Film Festival.

"To be included with that group of films as part of the festival is fantastic," said Jason Filiatrault, whose locally produced Three in a Bed will have its world premier during the festival's People Are Strange series of short films to be featured on April 12.

Bear Day

More than you can bear in Canmore

Canmore will once again host Bear Day on April 13 to celebrate but also raise further awareness about bears.

The event provides visitors the opportunity to learn about the challenges that bears face in Alberta, and to learn about the bear management strategies that are being used in Kananaskis Country.

Bear-spray demonstrations, family programs and bear talks are all part of the day's events.

Organizers aspire to replace public fear of the animals with a healthy respect for them. METRO

'Minor fire.' Glenmore Trail closed after meat transport truck flips

Rush hour ground to a halt Thursday afternoon after a meat-filled semi flipped on a busy thoroughfare.

The semi-trailer truck was partially lodged on the centre median of the busy road and a "minor fire" erupted, according to early police reports.

Glenmore Trail was closed in both directions and traffic was being diverted on to Deerfoot Trail, according to the Calgary police.

"It's like a parking lot in there," said Cst. Tat Ng of the Calgary Police Service.

of a feather with crows flying out of it "like a rebirth" on her 16th birthday.

"It was kind of a way for her to take back her body," Parsons said.

It's been a year since Rehtaeh died on April 7 after attempting to take her own life, which her mother says was due to months of bullying after a photo of her alleged rape was spread around school.

A walk in her memory is planned for Saturday afternoon, which Parsons said has the double importance of bringing awareness to rape culture.

"It's a worldwide thing," Parsons said. "She resonates with other people because they know how easily it could be their child."

Parsons especially hopes teenagers will come and listen to the messages of respect, and not victimizing others.

"Don't stand around and do nothing. You've got to speak up."

Rehtaeh's story led to multiple reviews and new legislation around sharing intimate photos. Parsons said the important thing is she brought up issues "that needed to be talked about."

Digital strategy

Conservatives set to unveil new framework

Ottawa is set to unveil its long-awaited national digital strategy.

Industry Minister James Moore, in a video clip posted on YouTube and the pm.gc.ca website, said the policy framework "is going to prepare this country for the next generation of opportunities in the digital world."

Called Digital Canada 150, he said the framework will be unveiled at an event in Waterloo, Ont. Friday.

Halifax. Pizza theft has happy, cheesy ending

A Dartmouth, N.S., woman recovering at a Halifax hospital from surgery to treat Crohn's disease is awash in gratitude this week after some deep-dish acts of kindness.

Jessica Wilson, 24, has been on a mostly liquid diet over the last month. She awoke Tuesday eagerly looking forward to solid food in the form of a Hawaiian pizza she had stowed — marked with her name — in her floor's communal fridge.

But the pizza was gone, the empty box crumpled in the trash.

"When you're sick and you've been in hospital for a month, the smallest thing seems so big," said Wilson. "So for me, it was earth-shattering."

Wilson took to Facebook to rant, and sympathetic friends took up her cause. By the end of Tuesday, two large pizzas had been delivered, anonymously, to her floor.

U.S. officials create 'Cuban Twitter' to foster dissent

ZunZuneo. The popular social network was a USAID project in Cuba

The U.S. government masterminded the creation of a "Cuban Twitter" — a communications network designed to undermine the communist government in Cuba, built with secret shell companies and financed through foreign banks, The Associated Press has learned.

Project "ZunZuneo" lasted more than two years and drew 40,000-plus subscribers. First, the network would build a Cuban audience, mostly young people; then, the plan was to push them to dissent. It's unclear whether the scheme was legal under U.S. law. Rajiv Shah, administrator for the U.S. Agency for International Development, said it was not a covert program, which requires written authorization of the president and congressional notification, though "parts of it were done discreetly."

The project began in 2009 after Washington-based Creative Associates International obtained a half-million Cuban cellphone numbers, and used those numbers to start a subscriber base. USAID and its contractors set up front companies in Spain and the Cayman Islands to hide the money trail. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ontario. Lost lobster dies far from home

The Lincoln County Humane Society in St. Catharines, Ont., sent out a tweet Thursday saying a lobster found abandoned in a box in a restaurant parking lot has died.

The crustacean — dubbed Mickey the Lobster — was discovered Wednesday in a parking lot. The humane society's executive director Kevin Strooband had said the investigation was ongoing, but suspected that the lobster was left there as a prank on April Fools' Day.

The animal shelter had been making plans to send the lobster back to the Maritimes where it probably came from. But now those hopes are dashed, although the humane society said on Twitter that it had received three offers to get Mickey home.

Strooband said an investigation into how the lobster ended up in a box in the parking lot was ongoing.

Deep hidden ocean located on Saturn moon

Enceladus. Little moon is probably not the only one with a subsurface sea; Saturn's Titan moon may have an ocean

Scientists have uncovered a vast ocean beneath the icy surface of Saturn's little moon Enceladus.

Italian and American researchers made the discovery using Cassini, a NASA-European spacecraft still exploring Saturn and its rings 17 years after its launch from Cape Canaveral. Their findings were announced Thursday. This new ocean of liquid water — as big as or even bigger than North America's Lake Superior — is centred at the south pole of Enceladus and could encompass much if not most of the moon. Enceladus is about 499 kilometres across.

The data does not show if the ocean extends to the north pole, said the lead researcher, Luciano Iess of Sapienza University of Rome. At the very least, it's a regional sea some 40 kilometres deep under miles-thick ice.

On Earth, it would stretch at least from our South Pole up to New Zealand.

Cassini's rudimentary instruments cannot determine whether the moon's ocean harbours any form of life. Another mission using more sophisticated instruments is needed for that.

Fort Hood

Gunman may have argued with fellow soldiers

The soldier who killed three people at Fort Hood may have argued with another service member shortly before the attack at the Texas military base, and investigators believe his unstable mental health contributed to the rampage, authorities said Thursday.

The base's senior officer said there is a "strong possibility" that Spc. Ivan Lopez had a "verbal altercation" with another soldier or soldiers immediately before Wednesday's shooting, but there's no indication that he targeted specific soldiers.

A hospital official expressed optimism Thursday that all 16 people who were wounded in the shooting would survive.

Hunger strikers put in solitary as revenge: Activists

U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement has retaliated against about 20 immigrant hunger strikers and supporters at a Washington state detention facility by putting them in solitary confinement, activists said Thursday, and two legal groups sued to halt the practice.

The agency denied exacting any revenge, saying instead that those separated from the general population had been generating complaints by intimidating others to join the strike.

The strikers have sought an end to deportations as well better conditions at the centre.

Ford crack to fears of Wiretap shows locals worried they'd 'feel the heat' from T.O. mayor, who feels vindicated by investigation standstill

A woman living in a suspected crack house where she suggested the Rob Ford crack video was filmed complained the Toronto mayor's "people" were stopping by every day following media reports about the video, police allege.

Elena Basso is heard on a wiretapped conversation with an alleged gang member saying Ford has "got power" and "it doesn't matter who's right or wrong ... we're going to feel the heat everywhere," police allege.

Police summaries of the wiretaps made as part of Project Traveller — a gang, drugs and weapons investigation — are among information ordered released to the public Thursday by an Ontario Superior Court judge.

that he had been "cleared" after the provincial police force, which was tapped last month to oversee a Toronto police probe of the mayor's activities, said it was no longer involved.

That probe, dubbed Project Brazen 2, was sparked by media reports about a cell-phone video on which Ford appears to smoke crack cocaine.

But at that time the Project Traveller investigation was already well underway, including wiretaps, which allegedly captured conversations about

Ousted Ukrainian president accused of using snipers, thugs to squash opposition

Ukraine's interim authorities accused the country's ousted president of ordering snipers to open fire on protesters and getting help from Russian security agents to battle his own people — but their report Thursday provided no evidence directly linking him to the bloodbath in Kyiv.

Acting Interior Minister

Arsen Avakov also charged that his predecessor employed gangs of killers, kidnappers and thugs to terrorize and undermine the opposition during Ukraine's tumultuous winter of discontent.

The preliminary findings revealed by Kyiv's new leadership examined the months of anti-government protests that culminated in the deaths in February of over 100 people in Kyiv, mostly protesters. That violence forced a truce between the opposition and the government, but the arrangement quickly collapsed and President Viktor Yanukovich fled to Russia.

One of those conversations, police say in the documents, was between alleged gang member Liban Siyad — who would later be arrested in Project Traveller — and Basso, whose home police allege is a "frequent hangout for crack cocaine users."

According to the documents, Siyad tells Basso he had nothing to do with the video and both talk about "G" being responsible for it. Police believe "G" is Mohamed Siad, who was also ultimately arrested in Project Traveller.

If Siyad had the video, he would bring it to Basso "directly to give to Rob," police allege he said in a May 20 conversation.

"The f---ing goof did it at my house," police allege Basso said. "I got Rob's f---ing people and cops coming here every f-

The "whole area" is going to "go down" because of "G," and "G" screwed up her business, Siyad's business and everybody's business, police allege Basso said.

Siyad wanted Basso to tell Ford he didn't have the video and Basso assured him she knows that, police allege.

"To be fair, Rob Ford — I told you guys — is a big f---ing idiot," police allege Basso said.

The OPP said Thursday that "all the matters are currently before the courts" and there is no new information or evidence that needs to be followed up on. Ford took the news to mean he was cleared.

ARE YOU A TARGET?

And if so, what to do.

Hackers and privacy thieves may sometimes come to us in ways we don't expect; here are a few examples that might surprise you

MCKIBBIN

After taking the normal precautions to protect our privacy and digital belongings — measures such as making strong passwords, using firewalls and anti-virus software, keeping computers and other equipment updated and using a VPN at public Wi-Fi sites — people have to weigh how much further they have to go to stay safe.

Inside job

"When it comes to security in businesses, the person who is going to have the easiest time of things is the person inside your company."

Leigh Honeywell, computer security researcher, who says companies need to be really careful about who they hire easy a question to answer as most people think it is.

Are you rich? No? Is your boss?

While an individual of modest means might be less likely to be a target for hackers, their employers might be, says Wright.

"Sometimes hackers use people as stepping stones," he says. Important intellectual property or fat lines of credit can be very attractive targets for hackers.

who is going to have the easiest time of things is the person inside your company," says computer security researcher Leigh Honeywell.

"People call it the insider threat."

"And that's where having good hiring practices, having good internal security, paying attention that you are hiring good people — that's what makes the difference there."

She adds that companies should also have layers of checks and balances in place so that if someone does go rogue they can be detected and stopped. But pect for an individual. Home research, trusted friends with computer know-how and common sense are what most people have to rely on.

When your computer is out to get you

Even technology can pose threats to privacy all by itself, she says, pointing to an incident that happened when Google launched its now defunct Buzz social networking platform. Buzz would automatically "friend" all of the people in its user's email contacts — a feature that looked more like a bug for one woman when Buzz friended her abusive ex.

"Anything you post on a website you should consider to be eventually public even though your privacy settings may control who can access it at any given time," says Wright.

"Do a little bit of voluntary policy where they commit to informing their users of breaches.

Websites sometimes change their privacy policies. Even those run by people with the best of intentions sometimes get hacked. And there's the weak link in the whole equation — people.

"If you post too much info on FB and don't have your privacy set properly — you can go on Facebook and find lots of people who have not put in any privacy restrictions on their information and that makes it really easy for people to target them."

If you lose your phone, are people reading your financial statements? Most people want to keep their private affairs private and don't want to be hacked, but how they feel about the privacy of others is a whole different thing. Security researcher Scott Wright, who runs a study called the Honey Stick Project, has some bad news.

"People love to look at other people's employment and salary information," says Wright, who runs experiments in which he will drop unlocked USB keys and smartphones with fake files labeled things like "HR salaries,"

"concert tickets" or "passwords," in different cities in Canada and the U.S. and then monitors what people do with them.

"It's not all that encouraging," he says. "For USB drives, about 65 per cent of the time people will open them, plug them into their computer, double click on files, which could infect their computers."

For the phones, he says 80 per cent of the time people will go through the contents to see what's on them.

"And it's not just to find contact information," he says.

Do the phones come back? "About 50 per cent of the time they will get returned."

"We all have to figure out whether or not we're likely to be a target," says Scott Wright, a computer security expert who has worked in the field for more than a decade and uses his powers of hacking for good and not for evil.

"If you are not a target, you take the risk, like you take the risk of driving down the street and not getting into an accident."

But it's often not as

Interim privacy commissioner talks about her biggest concerns and whether we need to redefine our ideas of privacy

Personal is still personal, even on Facebook

“The public availability of personal information on the Internet’ does not ‘render personal information non-personal.” Chantal Bernier, quoting a report from her office that looked into two government departments’ collection of information from an activist’s Facebook page Metro posed a series of questions to Chantal Bernier, Interim Privacy Commissioner of Canada, by email. The following article has been edited for length and clarity.

Q: Canadians have many online privacy concerns. What do you see as threats they are facing?

A: Canadians face a growing number of threats ... they may be tracked without their knowledge; they are vulnerable to hackers and fraudsters; and they may be surprised to find information they posted online used in ways they had not anticipated.

When Canadians were asked about the privacy risks that most concerned them, computer privacy and Internet security were second only to concerns related to security of financial information. We have seen a growing number of investigations under the Personal Information and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA) involve online issues.

We recently completed an investigation on how Google’s online advertising service used sensitive information about individuals’ online activities to target them with health-related advertisements. Not only was this contrary to Canadian privacy law ... it was also contrary to Google’s own privacy policy ... We were pleased Google agreed to implement our recommendations.

In our last annual report on the Privacy Act, we raised concerns with respect to two government departments collecting personal information posted by an activist on her personal Facebook page. We recommended that the departments not access this type of personal information from social media sites unless they could show there was a direct link to an operating program or activities.

Our Office recently prepared a Special Report to Parliament on reinforcing privacy protection and oversight for the Canadian intelligence community in an era of cyber-surveillance.

Canada does have a comparatively strong oversight system but our report includes a number of recommendations such as increased public reporting and a call for a re-examination of the oversight structure designed to ensure privacy.

Q: What is the volume of complaints your office fields about online privacy concerns?

A: In a typical year, our office investigates more than 1,400 complaints under the Privacy Act and PIPEDA.

Q: With the pervasiveness of Facebook and Twitter, do you think the definition of privacy needs to change?

A: Our expectations of privacy are different depending on circumstances. What you post on the Internet is not always private. We encourage people to only post things they would be comfortable with the whole world seeing.

Q: Do we need greater investment in creating a more secure IT infrastructure?

A: Our work has focused on ensuring organizations that are online use the tools and technologies available to properly protect security and privacy. Many privacy problems we encounter have more to do with business practices and improper use of technology to keep information secure, rather than fundamental infrastructure issues.

Q: Is the commission concerned that the government has been spying on its own people?

The recent revelations about surveillance matters have been troubling from a privacy standpoint. We hope our recent report to Parliament will contribute to a constructive, informed debate on privacy protection in the context of national security.

FireChat ignites off-the-grid convos

Humans made fire...

Now we've made a messaging app via wireless mesh networking so users can connect sans Internet

A new mobile messaging application called FireChat is empowering nearby smartphone users to stay in touch even when there's no cellular service or Internet connection.

In just two weeks since its release on the iPhone, FireChat already has provided a flicker of hope for people pining for more effective, secure and affordable ways to communicate. That's because the free messaging app harnesses a technology called wireless mesh networking, which might someday allow a myriad of devices to connect like links in a chain.

The technique might someday be used to tie together thousands of devices with built-in radios and make it possible to be online without having to pay for the access. It could also enable online communications in remote areas or disaster zones without Wi-Fi or cellular signals. Furthermore, the conversations in these so-called "off-the-grid" networks can't be easily hacked into by spies and mischief makers or shut down by governments trying to stifle

Hitching a ride

FireChat's iPhone app piggybacks on an often overlooked feature called the Multipeer Connectivity Framework that Apple Inc. included in its latest mobile operating system, iOS 7, released last September. Apple says more than 80 per cent of people using its mobile devices rely on iOS 7.

free speech.

"We are trying to create networks built by the people for the people," said Micha Benoliel, CEO of Open Garden, maker of the FireChat app.

Open Garden, a San Francisco startup with just 10 employees, is taking another step toward its ambitious goal with Thursday's release of a FireChat app for Android phones.

FireChat could be an even hotter commodity on Android given the demographic differences between that platform's user base and the typical iPhone owner.

The app already has been installed on more than 1 million iOS devices.

Many smartphones running on Google Inc.'s free Android software are cheaper than Apple Inc.'s iPhone. That has made Android phones the top-selling mobile devices in less affluent countries, including in regions where Internet access is inadequate or expensive.

Google is among the big Internet companies intrigued with mesh networking's potential to bring more of the world online.

Sundar Pichai, Google's executive in charge of Android, has touted mesh networks as a way to connect wearable computers, such as the company's Glass eyewear. Mesh networks also could be used to bring a wide variety of everyday appliances online, helping to build an Internet of things instead of just websites.

FireChat's reach so far is limited. When connecting off the grid, iPhone app users have only been able to send text and photos to other FireChat users within a range of 30 to 100 feet.

Later this year, Open Garden plans to upgrade FireChat's iPhone app so off-the-grid users will be able to hopscotch through a daisy chain of devices to extend the reach of a local network. If this works, a FireChat user sitting in the right-field bleachers of a baseball game would be able to text with a friend on the other side of the stadium if enough other iPhone users in the ballpark also are on FireChat.

This extended range will be available immediately on FireChat's Android app because Open Garden released a mesh networking app for that operating system nearly two years ago. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rogers hopes to score with wireless spectrum

Rogers Communications is betting consumers — especially NHL hockey fans — will be watching more video on their tablets and smartphones with its recent $3.3-billion purchase of wireless spectrum.

Rogers said Thursday the new spectrum will help it better handle increased traffic on its network, and will complement its 12-year deal with the NHL for the English and French national broadcast rights to all games, including the playoffs and the Stanley Cup final on all of its platforms.

The additional spectrum will allow more consumers to be on its network at the same time watching a hockey game on their mobile devices, giving them a consistent and fast experience, the Toronto-based

"Mobile video consumption tends to be around big events and often times, those are sporting events and there's no bigger sport in this country than hockey," said David Purdy, senior vice-president of content at Rogers. "So it will allow for us to manage what we think is going to be an incredible, explosive growth in terms of the consumption of mobile video."

The rich are getting richer

While politicians in Ottawa still can't decide who is in the middle class, a new analysis suggests wealth is increasingly gravitating to the very top.

The report by the left-leaning Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives shows that the country's 86 richest individuals and families — or 0.002 per cent of the total population — are getting exponentially richer and now have accumulated as much wealth as the country's poorest 11.4 million.

That's more than in 1999, when the richest 86 had as much money as the poorest 10.1 million and enough to buy up everything in New Brunswick and still have about $40 billion left over, according to the report, to be released Thursday.

The point of the exercise, says economist and author David Macdonald, who used Statistics Canada data and research from Canadian Business magazine, is to show that if income inequality is a policy and social justice concern — wealth inequality is worse.

In fact, the super-rich list of Canadian residents has little to do with income in the traditional sense, he said. None of the 86 are company CEOs — often the poster children of the Occupy crowd for their unseemly salaries and bonuses.

Instead, the ones on the list are there by virtue of being company founders or related to company founders.

LACK OF JUDGMENT? THAT'S %$#@

1 Justin Trudeau. I'm all for politicians being transparent and real, so I don't think it's a big deal the Liberal leader dropped the f-bomb at a charity boxing event last weekend in Gatineau, Que. The PMO called his use of the f-word a "lack of judgment" but that's the pot calling the kettle black.

2 Circle of life. Imagine being on a plane, when all of the sudden a bunch of people break out in an amazing rendition of The Circle of Life and they turn out to be the Australian cast of The Lion King. That's what happened during a flight from Brisbane to Sydney, and the YouTube footage of their high-flying performance has three million views. What a scream, er, roar!

3 Final Four. It's March Madness fun this weekend as it all comes down to No 1. Florida versus No. 7 Connecticut, and No. 2 Wisconsin versus No. 8 Kentucky. I'm pumped for this but was really hoping Canada's Nik Stauskas would be playing there — the Michigan team he starred on lost a nail-biter to Kentucky in the Elite Eight.

4 Pranks. April Fools' wasn't just parents pranking their kids. Some of the best came from Canadian companies such as Fido, which replaced their iconic K9 with a feline in their branding, and Westjet claiming it's converting all its flight times to metric. That more companies have co-opted April Fools' is fine with me. All in good fun.

5 Photoshop Lorde. Huge props to Lorde, the 17-year-old pop star who drew attention to a photoshopped image of herself on Twitter, and then showed the "real" one with all her flaws. "I find this curious — two photos from today, one edited so my skin is perfect and one real. remember flaws are ok :)" she said to her 1.4 million followers. Great message.

6 Miley & Avril. To lampoon a recent study ranking Avril as the most famous Canadian of all time, Miley Cyrus and Avril Lavigne showed they have comedic talent in a 14-second Instagram video where they argue over who is the most famous person in Canada. They end the video by play wrestling. The only thing that would have made it better is if the Biebs was refereeing.

7 Snapchat. Time.com posted an article on how Snapchat is growing up, as it transitions from tweens sending selfies to each other to college students trading admissions pics — and colleges actually directly recruiting students using the service. Facebook, Instagram and Twitter grew up. Now, it's Snapchat's turn. Time for me to join.

8 #YouKnowYoureCanadianWhen. What I love about Canadians is how funny and self-deprecating we are. So when #YouKnowYoureCanadianWhen trended this week, people ate it up like bacon with tweets like "You wanna wear shorts in 7 degree weather" and "you say sorry when the person bumped into you." Love this country.

9 (Samsung) selfie with Obama. A selfie of Boston Red Sox slugger David Ortiz with U.S. President Obama was all the rage this week. Turns out, Samsung — which was behind the Ellen Oscars selfie — was also behind this, as Ortiz has an endorsement deal with them. From now on, I'm just going to assume Samsung is behind every selfie that goes viral. So they win.

Nightmare Before Christmas does Game of Thrones

metronews.ca

You may have heard that a little show called Game of Thrones is returning on Sunday, unleashing season 4 on a very eager audience. But a lot has happened in Westeros over the past three seasons. Luckily, Cas van de Pol has put together a Nightmare Before Christmas-inspired musical number to bring you up to speed.

The Captain's full of action

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Chris Evans, right, stars in Captain America: The Winter Soldier. Richard Crouse gives the movie some credit for its good action sequences. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

When we meet up with the recently defrosted superhero Captain America (Chris Evans), he is catching up with the modern world. He soon finds himself tangling with the chrome-armed Winter Soldier (Sebastian Stan), a villain from Cap's long distant past and battle against a threat from deep inside S.H.I.E.L.D., his own spy network. The Captain must determine who can be trusted. Will it be S.H.I.E.L.D. director Nick Fury (Samuel L. Jackson), the flirty but deadly Natasha Romanoff (Scarlett Johansson) or World Security Council bigwig Alexander Pierce (Robert Redford)? The decisions he makes could save his life and the lives of 20 million civilians.

Captain America: The Winter Soldier. Blockbuster's plot is ripe with twists and turns and some genuinely thrilling moments

Richard: Mark, movie by movie, Marvel is creating an interconnected universe. Like a giant jigsaw puzzle, the comic book company has pieced together something quite unprecedented: a series of films that aren't sequels to one another, but when combined form a loud, brash whole. Captain America was a latecomer to the party, and while the first film was a solid introduction, it didn't have the sparkle of, say, the first Iron Man movie. The character seemed a bit beige; a do-gooder with no rough edges. The Winter Soldier addresses those concerns, fleshing out the character and providing some very good action sequences. What do you think?

Mark: I'm not sure the word "think" applies much to the movie. But I did enjoy it, much more than the first installment. The plot seemed rooted in some reality, in a kind of paranoid thriller way, like Enemy of the State and Three Days of the Condor, and Robert Redford's presence makes the connection even more explicit. But I still don't feel I knew Captain America any better in this one. He's still a cipher to me — a sphinx with a very powerful garbage can lid.

Quoted

"This time out I thought Evans got deeper into the character."

RC: This time out I thought Evans got deeper into the character. Physically he's one big rippling muscle, but it's his personality and attitude that make him interesting. He's still a do-gooder, but one who questions his missions. "You're holding a gun to everyone on Earth and calling it protection," he says after learning of S.H.I.E.L.D.'s violent plan to bring peace to the world. It's an edgy message from a Greatest-Generation type to a world where drones have become common and Edward Snowden rides the line between patriot and traitor. The message permeates the plot, which is ripe with twists and turns and some genuinely thrilling moments.

MB: Dunno about the message, but there were two long memorable car chases, and that's enough for me! Loved the cast — Redford, Samuel L. Jackson, Anthony Mackie, all great fun, but Scarlett Johansson was the cherry on the top of this sundae. She plays a lot of scenes without much makeup, which made me believe she was actually on an op. In the fight scenes, I'm sure Evans and Johansson used stunt doubles, but it looked they were doing their own work. Nice directing.

RC: I enjoyed the performances. Johansson, in particular, is mad, bad and dangerous to know as Romanoff, and kicks so high it's only a matter of time until she gets her own Avengers movie.

MB: I'm looking forward to the next installment: Captain America and Tennille, where he saves the world and sings poppy '70s love ballads.

She's starting with the demon in the mirror

Oculus. Karen Gillan shaved her head for Marvel's tent-pole summer film — but first she stars in a freaky thriller

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Scottish actress Karen Gillan is making the move to the big screen after making a name for herself on Doctor Who. She shaved her head for this summer's big Marvel adventure Guardians of the Galaxy, but first up, she has the terrifying new psychological thriller Oculus, featuring Gillan as a young woman trying to prove a demonic mirror was responsible for her family's bloody demise 10 years earlier.

I sat next to a professional medium for my screening, and she couldn't take it. Are you for real? That's cool. If you can freak out a medium,

Karen Gillan stars in Oculus, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED then great.

The film does a great job of playing with whether the audience can actually trust your character or not.

That was a really fun thing for me to play and get involved in. As the characters are questioning what they remember and what they believe to be real, we want the audience to do that as well. So the audience starts off thinking this girl is OK and then are more gradually thinking, "Oh no, she's insane." It's quite a cool journey.

Did you have any trouble with the American accent?

I mean, I worked with a dialect coach a lot because I had a 13-page monologue to get through. There are certain sounds that I struggle with, or I just slip into this crazy Boston accent out of nowhere. I didn't know what it was (laughs). We'll just assume she spent some time in Boston at some point.

These are the sorts of backstories you create for yourself as an actress.

Yes, exactly. It was just a nuanced performance.

With your transition to films, is there any particular strategy at play?

I don't plot anything out. I'm not really a strategy type. I just look for good projects, really. I mean, right now I'm going to go and shoot a pilot for ABC, so there's no real plotting. I mean, I haven't plotted. Maybe my agent has, but I haven't.

You've obviously already got a nice foothold with the Comic-Con audience with Doctor Who, but Guardians of the Galaxy should increase it to a pretty intense level.

Yeah, what should I do next? How do I get the most nerd cred in the world.

I think Star Wars, maybe?

Star Wars, yeah. OK.

The head shaving must come up pretty often.

That does come up a lot. I quite like it. It's OK now, but before it was just so weird. I have my hair as a wig. That was the one thing that Marvel did. They were like, "To soften the blow, we're going to send your hair to the Star Wars people and they're going to make you a wig." I wish I'd gotten a picture of, like, all these monster heads and then just my hair in the Star Wars workshop.

I guess Disney has those connections now.

Exactly. It's like, "I know just who to send this to."

Cooking up drama on the gridiron

Draft Day. Director Ivan Reitman set out to make a football movie that appealed to non-football fans

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Ivan Reitman returns to the director's chair with the football drama Draft Day, starring Kevin Costner as the beleaguered general manager of the Cleveland Browns. For Reitman, the film signals a change in what sort of material he wants to direct — which means someone else will be helming Ghostbusters III.

How do you go about getting non-football fans to care about football?

That's the magic trick of this movie. When we were making it, I knew that if it was only for football fans, then the film wasn't right. Because it's really not so much about football, even though it takes place in the football world. It's really about human drama and being under pressure and rising against it.

Kevin Costner stars in Draft Day, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

And you have Kevin Costner as the guy dealing with that pressure.

There's just something about the guy that looks like he should be doing this and could have done it in his life. I said this to him when I first met him, that there's kind of this inner goodness that he represents, this all-American kind of good guy quality that we as men want to follow, and it's what makes him effective as a movie star. It's sort of what Gary Cooper and all those great, classical old-time Hollywood guys had.

How did he respond to that?

He sort of smiled shyly at me and changed the subject.

Being in charge of a major-league sports team is such a public job, with so many fans and critics offering unsolicited opinions. Sort of like being a movie director, right?

There's 100,000 reviewers out there, not counting all the people who review your movie anyway as individuals and tell their friends, "Yeah, it sucked." It's part of public life today, and it's why I could relate to the story very easily. I felt very much like his job is the job of a director in a movie. I've had to deal with those kinds of pressures.

What are your priorities for

Director Ivan Reitman believes Ghostbusters III is still worth making. CONTRIBUTED

Quoted

"I think at this age, if I'm going to continue directing, I think it will be things that are a little smaller and more intimate that have a stronger emotional core to them."

Director Ivan Reitman

choosing projects to direct at this point in your career?

At this age, if I'm going to continue directing, I think it will be things that are a little smaller and more intimate that have a stronger emotional core to them. It sort of led to that decision of withdrawing from Ghostbusters as a director. I wanted to do it, but I was always torn for that reason. And then with Harold Ramis's death, it just didn't seem right for me to continue as the director, and I actually thought I'd be more effective as the producer of the project.

What do you think about the diehard Ghostbusters fans out there who don't think a third movie is a good idea?

People are cynical, and there's now a million critics out there who let everybody know on a daily basis what they think about everything. People are always almost 90 per cent negative on what they don't know, because what's in their imagination is not necessarily correct. I know we have a script that I think will work, and I have a long history of making things work. I've been wrong a bunch of times, but I think this is a really good one, and I think it's worth making.

3 songs for the weekend

In celebration of the 300th edition of my Metro column, I give you some wonderfully weird tunes that may just melt your ears

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

Trouble's Lament/Tori Amos

Kooky Tori is back with a record that she describes as more of a diary than anything else. Unrepentant Geraldines — a wonderfully Tori-like title — will be out May 13.

Fleshlightning/Daniel James

This vaguely Blue Oyster Cult-ish spoof song, wherein the singer ditches a microphone for a male sexual aid, is a funny — albeit icky — twist on the typical ode to love.

Master Yoda/Eclectic Method

If you're looking for spiritual advice from a backwards-talking light-sabre wielding ancient green Muppet who talks backwards, this will help.

See that symbol? It means you can scan this image with your Metro News app to listen to Alan Cross's recommended songs this week.

Delsin Rowe has the ability to become smoke. This should make him super-human, but because he uses it like a gun for some fairly standard shootouts, he's just another ordinary game character. The superpowers you unlock end up being the least interesting part of the game when compared to exploring the beautiful city of Seattle, meeting engaging characters, and enjoying activities involving Banksy-inspired street art. You end up playing not for what's happening now, but for what you hope might happen next.. KRIS ABEL

Lindsay Lohan ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Call it 'freehab': LiLo's stay at well-appointed Cliffside Malibu comped by facility

Lindsay Lohan's ongoing financial woes didn't stop her from getting some much-needed treatment, as her last three-month stay at the Cliffside Malibu rehab facility was reportedly on the house, according to Radar Online. "Health insurance wouldn't pay for the rehab stint because this was her sixth time in treatment," a source says. "Cliffside Malibu comped it. Prior to arriving at Cliffside, Lindsay had been at Betty Ford and wasn't doing well there. Cliffside Malibu became available and agreed to allow her to stay, presumably because of the free publicity it gave them. She thrived in the environment." Lohan reportedly stayed in a private room at the well-appointed facility because "she would never agree to have a roommate."

Tom Daley

Daley says he's gay, not bisexual

Tom Daley would like to clarify his earlier statement about his sexuality. When the British Olympic diver first divulged that he is dating a man — Oscar-winning screenwriter Dustin Lance Black, as it turns out — in a YouTube video in December, he was sure to mention, "Of course, I still fancy girls." But in an interview on Keith Lemon's Celebrity Juice, Daley revised his statement, saying, "I am a gay man now." And while he found the coming out experience terrifying, Daley is still glad he did it. "I came out on YouTube as I wanted to say what I wanted to say without anyone twisting it. I told my family before I told the world. I was terrified," he says. "I did it on YouTube because people were constantly digging and asking questions." METRO WORLD NEWS

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Were Gwyneth and Chris consciously open coupling?

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News

I really do feel badly for Chris Martin and Gwyneth Paltrow. Say what you will about Gwyneth, no one ever accused her of not trying hard.

That's not to say that the Paltrow-Martin marriage was all picket fences and soccer games. Rumour has it that prior to their conscious uncoupling, Paltrow and Martin engaged in a fair amount of conscious coupling with other partners, according to E! Online.

Over the years, gossip has linked both spouses to others. Gwyneth's recent power struggle with Vanity Fair was reportedly the result of her attempt — ultimately successful — to keep the magazine from printing rumours of her affair with Florida businessman Jeffrey Soffer.

She's also been linked to Glee producer Brad Falchuk and attorney Kevin Yorn. Coldplay star Martin, meanwhile, has reportedly been spotted with Kate Hudson, Kate Bosworth, and Helena Christensen. Man (allegedly) likes his blondes. Martin's rep denied the Bosworth rumour, while Christensen also issued a strongly worded denial.

Nigella Lawson

Nigella barred from U.S. flight

The U.S. Embassy in London says celebrity cook Nigella Lawson was denied permission to board a flight to the United States on the weekend.

The embassy did not disclose the reason for refusing Lawson, who admitted during a recent court case that she had occasionally used cocaine. Embassy spokeswoman Lynne Platt said Thursday that Lawson was stopped from travelling Sunday and had subsequently been invited to the embassy to apply for a visa. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miley's pot habit Can't Be Tamed

Miley Cyrus has made no secret of her love of marijuana, but apparently her intake can even shock the likes of rapper Wiz Khalifa, who teamed up with Cyrus for a track on his new album. "She smokes a ton," he tells Arsenio Hall in an interview. "She's young, so it's different. Every five minutes she kept being like, 'Wiz, you don't have a joint rolled? What's up?' She's a tiny girl. And she's just blowing like a train." METRO WORLD NEWS

Germany's global appeal

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

I'm back from Germany — a winemaking country with a long history, both in its own vineyards and here in Canada.

If you're showing even a hint of grey hair, you probably remember Germany's liquid output as the sweet and simple stuff your parents drank at bridge club parties.

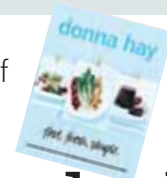

But today's German wines have a secret weapon. Predominately white, their balance of sugar and acidity make them extremely food-friendly, especially when you're looking for a match with takeout. Sushi, Chinese, Mexican, Thai, anything spicy, and they can fill your glass.

I spent some time in the Mosel region: a beautiful part of the wine world populated by small fairy-tale towns where steeply planted vines grow on the slopes that rise from the banks of the meandering Moselle river.

In the Mosel, Riesling is king, with wines like Dr.

Loosen's 2012 'Dr. L' Riesling ($13.95 - $18.99) offering soft, green apple/fruit expression and a palate-cleansing personality that pairs perfectly with the local cuisine. Pass the schnitzel. PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Forget the tired lettuce, croutons, store-bought dressing and fake Parmesan cheese routine. Bestselling Australian chef Donna Hay shows us how to give a classic salad new life with a recipe from her cookbook Fast, Fresh, Simple.

Dessert

Berry Mille Feuille

- 8 square won ton wrappers
- 50 g butter, melted
- 2 tbsp icing sugar
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) single (pouring) cream, whipped
- 125 g blueberries
- 125 g raspberries
- Extra icing sugar, for dusting

Preheat oven to 180 C (350 F). Place won tons on a baking tray lined with non-stick baking paper. Brush the won tons with butter and sprinkle with icing sugar. Bake for 5-7 minutes or until golden. Cool on trays. Place a won ton on each of 4 serving plates. Spoon half the cream onto the won tons and top with the blueberries. Top with another won ton and the remaining cream and sprinkle with raspberries. Dust with extra icing sugar to serve. DONNA HAY, GUSTOTV.COM

2014 Spanish Festival

The 2nd annual Spanish Festival runs until April 6, and this is your chance to celebrate the wonderful food, music, film and dance that originated in the most romantic country of them all. Over the next few days you can catch several demonstrations of flamenco, view acclaimed director Pedro Almodovar's latest film, Los Amantes Pasajero at the Plaza Theatre, and enjoy an evening of dance, tapas and sangria at Brava Bistro. For more information on this cultural festival or to purchase tickets you can visit: holaspain.ca

The Factory

On April 5, The Olds College Fashion Institute presents the Factory, which will showcase designs from this year's fashion apparel and costume-cutting students. Ania Basak of Fashion Calgary will host this year's program and guest designer Jamie Block will also make an appearance. An after-party and a silent auction will follow the Factory show, with proceeds going to Inn From The Cold. You can find the Factory on the second floor of the Bow Valley South campus. Tickets are $20 and the show runs from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. eventbrite.ca

Stephen Malkmus and the Jicks

Calgary has been getting a flurry of great acts traveling through recently and the fun doesn't stop. On April 7, Stephen Malkmus and the Jicks will be playing new hits off their latest album, Wig Out At Jagbags, at the Republik. Most people know Malkmus best for his work with the very influential '90s indie-rock group Pavement, so diehard fans will be happy to hear the Jicks have been known to perform one or two classics from the Pavement repertoire during their shows. Get your tickets at northerntickets.com.

Calgary Underground Film Festival

The CUFF is excited to bring you another great year of films that you won't see anywhere else. From April 7 to 13, you'll have a chance to see a brilliant selection of shorts, documentaries and dramas, meet the filmmakers, and there will even be a 48-hour filmmaking competition. Check out the site for all the details on show times and special events. Also of interest is the Found Footage Festival, which includes a screening of videos salvaged from garage sales and thrift stores. calgaryundergroundfilm.org

The Mountaintop

The Canadian premiere of The Mountaintop is playing at Theatre Calgary until the 20th of this month. Many people remember April 4, 1968 as a sombre moment in history, as it was the day that Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated in the Lorraine Hotel of Memphis. This play depicts Dr. King's final evening and the events that unfold when a young maid delivers a cup of coffee to room 306. You'll be moved by this story that discusses human rights, justice and freedom. theatrethecalgary.com

You Scream, I Scream

It's always risky to say anything about weather in Calgary with certainty, but spring might have actually arrived this week. With the local forecast calling for highs around 9 and 10 degrees, we all need to get outside and celebrate the end of winter months. Dust off that 10-speed, grab your skateboard or stop into Village Ice Cream (431 10th Avenue SE) and enjoy a frozen treat on a sunny patio. If you decide get a cone, don't overlook the toasted coconut or salted caramel options. villageicecream.com

Ramo redux: Flames goalie foils ex-team

NHL. Calgary shuts down playoff-bound Tampa Bay on the road

After five years, Karri Ramo expected his return to Tampa to feel different, but the Calgary Flames' goalie said it felt like a normal game.

The Tampa Bay Lightning probably wouldn't mind if he stayed away for another five years.

On Thursday

Ramo finished with 31 saves, Mike Cammalleri and Kevin Westgarth scored 15 seconds apart in the first period, and the Flames beat the Lightning 4-1 Thursday night.

"I thought it might be a little bit different, but no," Ramo said. "Things have changed so much that I didn't notice the rink anymore. It was a normal game for me."

Curtis Glencross scored twice in the final two minutes, including an empty-netter with 16 seconds left for the Flames.

Ondrej Palat scored with 4:04 left in the second period for the Lightning, who are locked in a tight race with Montreal for home-ice advantage in the first round of the playoffs. However, they couldn't get past a seemingly overmatched Flames team.

"We didn't come out strong in the first period and that's unfortunate," Lightning coach Jon Cooper said. "Credit to Calgary because they played like a motivated club and had the goalie stand tall for them. Every team is going to be tough because this is the National Hockey League." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bouchard holds off Williams

Venus Williams couldn't dig herself out of a hole this time and lost to Montreal's Eugenie Bouchard 7-6 (6), 2-6, 6-4 at the Family Circle Cup on Thursday.

The 33-year-old Williams had fought back in each of her first two matches to advance. She seemed to follow the same game plan in this one, but the 20-year-old Canadian broke Williams' serve twice down the stretch including the final game. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lefty looks healthy at Houston Open

Phil Mickelson is among the leaders after shooting a bogey-free 4-under-par 68 in his opening round of the Houston Open, showing no effects of the muscle pull that forced him to withdraw from last week's Texas Open.

Koe slides into 1-2 Page Playoff match

Canada's Kevin Koe lines the path for his teammates during a match against Scotland in Beijing on Thursday. ANDY WONG/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canada's Kevin Koe swept his games Thursday to qualify for the 1-2 Page Playoff game at the world men's curling championship.

Koe and his Calgary-based team opened with an 11-5 win over Germany's John Jahr at Capital Gymnasium and then locked up second place with a 7-5 victory over Scotland's Ewan MacDonald.

"We woke up today just worried about making sure that we made the playoffs," Koe said. "We lose that game and we could be in a tiebreak-

Canada has won gold at this event in three of the last four years and has qualified for the championship game in each of the last nine years.

er or something. The big thing was just to win and get in the playoffs and if we were in the 3-4 game, that was fine with us. We've done it before.

"But to get in the 1-2 game with an extra life, that's a bonus for sure."

The winner of Saturday's 1-2 game will advance straight to Sunday's final. The loser will play the winner of the 3-4 Page Playoff game in the semifinal.

The semifinal winner will play for gold and the loser will fall into the bronze-medal game against the 3-4 loser.

Norway (10-1) closed with a 7-6 extra-end victory over Switzerland. Thomas Ulsrud, who beat Koe 9-5 earlier this week, is hoping to win Norway's first world men's gold since 1998. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seven years later, the Jays just can't win in Tampa

Split series. After two wins and two losses in Florida, Jays will host Yankees till Sunday

Chris Archer threw six solid innings, Evan Longoria hit a three-run homer and the Tampa Bay Rays split a four-game series with Toronto by beating the Blue Jays 7-2 on Thursday night.

Archer (1-0) allowed two runs, four hits, two walks and had seven strikeouts. Archer and the Rays agreed to a $25.5 million, six-year deal Wednesday. The contract includes club options for 2020 and 2021 that could raise the value to $43.75 million.

for first on the Rays' career home run list with 163 on his seventh-inning shot off Esmil

Rogers that put Tampa Bay ahead 7-2.

Brandon Morrow (0-1) gave up four runs and seven hits over five innings in his first start since May 28.

The right-hander missed the final four months last season due to an entrapped radial nerve in his right forearm.

The Blue Jays extended their winless road series streak at Tampa Bay to 21. Since taking a series in April 2007, Toronto has lost 19 and split two road series against the Rays.

The Blue Jays will start RHP Dustin McGowan in Friday night's home opener against the New York Yankees. Japanese star Masahiro Tanaka will make his major league debut for the Yankees.

Horoscopes

Aries
March 21 - April 20
You seem to be feeling a bit vulnerable but there really is no need. What happens over the next few days will lift your spirits and also remind you that, even when things do go a little bit wrong, it's not the end of the world.

Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You may be tempted to hit back at someone who has been spreading gossip about you, but is it worth it? If you say something rude they will see they have managed to get under your skin.

Gemini
May 22 - June 21
You have taken on a lot of new responsibilities but is that worth it? You may think you can handle the extra work with ease but the planets warn it will, sooner or later, get too much. It should be about quality work, not quantity.

Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You must make an effort to finish what you have started, because if you fall behind any further it may be impossible for you to catch up. Close your eyes and ears to distractions and focus on the one thing you really must get done.

Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
If there is something important that needs to be done over the next two days, get on with it and ignore those who say you're not up to the task. They have no idea what you are capable of. They will soon find out though!

Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
A relationship that has caused you a few sleepless nights will start to improve over the weekend but don't think that means you no longer have to work at it. According to the planets, this may be the last chance you'll get.

Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
There is really no need to cut back on essentials or make major sacrifices, no matter what some people might say. It may seem as if there is no way out of your financial dilemma but there is always a way, so stay calm and think logically.

Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You are doing too many things for too many people and need to slow down a bit. If you carry on trying to do it all you are sure to burn yourself out, physically and emotionally, so stop catering to their every whim and fancy.

Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Don't let people play on your feelings and get you to do things you might not choose to do if you were thinking logically. Get tough and let them know you are no longer prepared to play this game.

Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Why is it that some people seem to enjoy making life so complicated? Whatever the reason you don't have to follow their example, so keep things simple today and don't go searching for complicated answers to what are such straightforward questions.

Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
A light-hearted attitude will take you a long way today. The planets suggest if you take nothing too seriously then nothing too serious will go wrong. In the greater scheme of things, it all comes right in the end.

Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You will find it easy to see the good in other people today — and they in turn will realize what a special friend they have in you. You can't love the whole world, of course, but the world has a special place in its heart for you.
